

The role of minerals and rocks in human life

Noe Gazashvili

noe.gazashvili312@ens.tsu.edu.ge

Department of Geology, Faculty of Natural and Exact Science,
Iv. Javakishvili Tbilisi State University
University Street 13, Tbilisi, Georgia, 0186

Minerals and rocks play an important role in human life from the Paleolithic to the present day. They are used in various fields of daily human activity: food and chemical industry, agriculture, medicine, construction, jewelry and applied arts, technology and spaceships, etc.

The report discusses the history of mining, processing, and use of minerals and rocks in the past and today.